RTNA 2010 Conference

November 21 – 23, 2010
The Marriott at River Cree Resort
Edmonton, Alberta

Sponsorship Prospectus

Hosted by:

Funded by the ALBERTA HERITAGE FOUNDATION
FOR MEDICAL RESEARCH Endowment Fund

You are invited to participate as a sponsor in the Research Transfer Network of Alberta's 2010 conference!

Knowledge transfer (KT) is about ideas and wanting to do things better. Whether you're a researcher, part of a research team, a health care practitioner, manager, knowledge broker, or a science entrepreneur, you are part of the knowledge transfer process. That process describes how new knowledge (innovate) moves between the research and decision maker worlds (influence) and ultimately, results in changes in policy, practice (integrate).

RTNA supports and encourages members to incorporate evidence into policy and practice, and to incorporate policy and practice considerations into research. To realize this vision, RTNA supports a culture of participation, networking, open dialogue, and mentorship. This culture creates an expectation of support for knowledge transfer, while acknowledging the complexity of decisions. The RTNA 2010 conference is one way to help encourage and build that culture.

With the help of our expert speakers and each other, we will explore and learn about innovation, influence and integration in knowledge transfer. The conference program will provide interactive and structured networking across disciplines to showcase practical tools and techniques in KT to an audience from across Canada.

Conference Hosts

This conference is hosted by the Health Research Transfer Network of Alberta at The Alberta Innovates – Health Solutions.

Why Sponsor?

Your support of this unique and significant Alberta event will result in a high-quality educational program. Your unrestricted educational grant will help to defray speaker expenses as we recruit experts in the field to meet with delegates.

As a sponsor, you will interact with leaders in the field of knowledge transfer. Sponsorship provides your organization an added profile with the diverse group that works in knowledge transfer throughout the health care system and in other sectors.

An excellent range of benefits offers you increasing visibility at each successive level.

Location

The RTNA 2010 Conference will begin on Sunday, November 21 and run until Tuesday, November 23, 2010 at The Marriott at River Cree Resort in Edmonton, Alberta.
